BILLING BREAKDOWN

Your contract's current balance is $0.00, which may include next month's payment and adjustments for underreported or overreported income. Here's how we calculated that number:

On the left hand side of your billing breakdown, you'll see your income as you've currently reported it to us. If you see any incorrect numbers, you should go to your income reporting page to update it. The Amount Owed column indicates how much you should have paid on that income had your income reports been accurate at the time.

On the right hand side of your billing breakdown, you'll see how much you paid the month after you earned the income. The list of these charges is available in the Transactions table below. The Discrepancy column indicates the difference between the amount you should have paid and the amount you paid.

To calculate your Current Balance, you should add up each item in the Discrepancy column. You can also validate this number by adding up all Amounts Owed and subtracting all Amounts Paid.
