Dear Manish Chaudhari,

2017 was a turbulent year for children. The global refugee crisis raged on, forcing millions to leave everything behind to escape conflict and persecution. Catastrophic hurricanes left children in Texas, Florida and Puerto Rico without power, clean water and sometimes even a home. At the same time, persistent poverty and inequality threatened the many gains children have made in the communities where we work around the world.

It's enough to make you wonder — are things getting any better for children?

Thanks to your generosity, I can say with confidence — yes, things are getting better. Every day, your support helps ensure that children in our programs grow up healthy, educated and safe. We made great strides for kids in 2017, and I can't thank you enough for your commitment to making that possible.

Thank you for putting your faith in us and the work you help make possible. With you by our side, we will continue to do whatever it takes for children in 2018. No matter what hurdles the year might bring, we are in it together.

For the children,
